EDITORIAL NOTE

The present volume contains a diverse collection of more than 500 abstracts of free communications and posters presented at the 22nd International Congress of Byzantine Studies. As readers will realize, the forty Congress sessions have been constructed so as to include eminent scholars with substantial experience along with young and upcoming researchers striving to establish themselves in their respective fields.

The arrangement of the abstracts follows the structure of the Congress program as put together under the supervision of Vassil Gjuzelev, President of the Organizing Committee. Considerable assistance, during his visit to Sofia in early April 2011, was also provided by Peter Schreiner, President of the International Association for Byzantine Studies, to whom we extend our sincere gratitude.

The title of each session is prefixed by the letters FC (“Free Communications”) followed by the number of the respective session. The texts are reproduced with minimal editorial amendments and reflect the personal style and preferences of their authors. The editor of this volume has been kindly assisted by Elena Kostova and Vladimir Angelov as well as by the members of the Organizing Committee.
